eNox Media Unveils a New Website for Its Online Marketing Division

(Tampa, Florida) – eNox Media launches a new website for its division of online marketing, eNox Marketing (www.enoxmarketing.com). The remodeled website features several new online marketing services, including an integrated e-mail marketing system for interactive campaigns, event management, contests, SMS text messaging, RSS feeds, online lead generation, organic search engine optimization, and paid advertisement programs. An animated demo of the eCampaign system, which showcases eNox Marketing’s dynamic e-mail marketing system, is also highlighted on the website.

eNox Media plans to continue building upon the branch website and add an online marketing blog where professionals can exchange valuable industry specific information.

The eNox Marketing division will complement the website design and development services offered by eNox Media and further enhance the main company’s full service offerings. The division will be dedicated to increasing clients’ brand awareness, reach, identity, and online visibility.

“We are all very excited about the launch of the eNox Marketing website,” said Malcolm Bowen, Founder and President of eNox Media. “We now have the capabilities to demonstrate our full range of services as well as introduce customers to another avenue of our company. Having a polished and effective website is only part of online marketing and branding, but now we have the capabilities to greatly expose our clients’ websites and increase their long-term business goals with an online presence.”
